Montreal, February 17, 2015 - The McCord Museum day camp for children aged 5 to 10 will take place from June 29 to August 21, 2015. The camp excels at providing children with what they need on vacation: play, movement, the outdoors, excursions and, above all, fun.

“The children will enjoy a variety of activities that emphasize creativity and movement, all of them closely tied to the collection and exhibitions at the McCord Museum,” says Dominique Trudeau, Head, Education programs.

The camp focuses on two exciting themes this year!

- The Rhythms of First Peoples

First Peoples dance to celebrate life. Throughout the week, children will learn traditional Aboriginal dances and the movements of hip-hop and break dancing to create their own performances.

They will also take inspiration from the exhibition Wearing our Identity – The First Peoples Collection to make the accessories they need for their show on Friday.

Weeks: June 29, 30, July 2 and 3 (closed July 1), July 13 to 17, July 27 to 31 and August 10 to 14.

- Photo Fun

The McCord Museum’s rich collection of photographs inspires artists, reveals history and sparks the imagination. Participants will learn about the techniques of photomontage, portrait photography, macro photography and more.

The summer exhibition Horst – Photographer of Style reveals all the artistic possibilities of photography. At the end of a week full of activities, the children will present an exhibition of their own creations.

Weeks: July 6 to 10, July 20 to 24, August 3 to 7 and August 17 to 21.
