

ACTIVITY SHEET

UNDERSTANDING AND BUILDING OUR WORLD AND OUR STORIES TOGETHER

At the McCord Museum, we use objects, stories and shared experiences to help our visitors better understand the world around them, no matter their age or background.

With our participatory approach and our civic perspective, we prioritize observation, interrogation, and dialogue in our activities.

Type of activity: Workshop

Activity title: Tell Me a Legend: Learn, Create and Share a Living Story

Target audience: Preschool – Elementary – Secondary – Teacher – Welcome class – Francization

Educational area: Social sciences – Personal development (Ethics and Religion) – Languages – Arts

Length: 45 minutes

Description of the activity

Developed in collaboration with contemporary Innu storyteller and director Donovan Vollant and Wapikoni, this workshop introduces participants to the legends of the First Nations of Quebec while developing their sense of the living story.

Wapikoni Mobile is a travelling studio for intervention, training and creation for Indigenous youth. Its mission is to amplify the voices of Indigenous youth through film and music, to disseminate their work in Canada and abroad, and to serve as a tool for professional development and social transformation.

Strategies

- Tales, stories and legends
- Association
- Collaborative game
- Dramatization

Attitudes developed

- Self-actualization
- Creativity
- Intercultural perspective

Major themes addressed

- Open-mindedness
In the effervescence of large city centres, cultures mix and mingle. Ways of living, being and doing enrich each other. From this diversity, emerge curiosities that are the source of renewed dialogue.
- Transforming the world
Humans have always wanted to control their environment by creating machines, devices, objects and new techniques. These inventions enrich our daily lives and transform our relationship to the world.
